Developing Exceptional Global Leaders

International Leadership: The Key to Financial Success

Want exceptional global leadership? Let's talk.

As a specialized leadership development consultancy, our sole purpose is to assist multinational companies to develop effective and efficient executives and teams with international responsibilities. Revel Miller Consulting provides the resources, programs and guidance you need to develop executives and managers with the skills and knowledge to work across cultures and borders. It's no secret that there is a scarcity of experienced business executives who can successfully lead their companies in the competitive global marketplace. Like you, we recognize that this short-fall will only become worse and erode business capability. We can help you overcome this obstacle. Call us. We solve problems.

The Revel Miller Difference

Why Clients Choose Us

- To Learn Faster and Build Global Mindset
Global executives learn new perspectives, leadership competencies and cross-cultural business practices. Their learning curve accelerates.
- To Adjust Fast to Foreign Environments
Expatriates and traveling executives learn to adapt and to transition in and out of various cultures with fewer struggles.
- To Reduce Global Leader Frustrations and Struggles
Leaders learn to make hard decisions and take effective action. They eliminate barriers that impede forward movement.
- To Accelerate Intercultural Understanding and Sensitivity
Leaders learn to recognize cultural differences and become more appreciative of different values, customs and world views.

Our Focus

International Leaders and Teams

Revel Miller Consulting (RMC) focuses exclusively on international leadership and team development within multinational organizations. Unlike other leadership consultants, RMC specializes in the unique needs and abilities of global executives, managers and team members. RMC draws upon an incomparable integration of professional expertise, valid methodologies and international experiences especially suited to the development of global mindset and cross-cultural abilities.

Our Philosophy

Continual Learning and Development

Revel Miller believes that there is a shortage of effective global executives and managers with the "right stuff". Although some are "born" with natural advantages, international leaders must gradually be "developed". However, developing cross-cultural insight, comfort and management skills is not an easy journey. And, it takes determination, courage and time.

At RMC, we believe that a professional guide propels international leaders and team participants to higher levels of performance and achievement. We don't believe in luck. We believe in commitment, action and results.
